

ONLC Named Top Citrix Training Company Receives Award for North America

Fort Lauderdale, FL — October 1, 2006 — Citrix Systems, the global leader in access infrastructure solutions, announced today it has awarded ONLC Training Centers with the Citrix Authorized Learning Center (CALC) of the Quarter award.

The award, measured by the number of students trained, revenue generated, and the quality of program compliance, recognized ONLC Training Centers' outstanding performance in providing flexible training services in Citrix technology using both traditional classroom instruction and Remote Classroom Instruction (RCI) technology.

"Citrix recognized ONLC Training Centers with the CALC of the Quarter award for their innovative Internet-based training delivery using RCI technology and their steady increase in sales," said Steve Pace, Citrix's Manager of Education Sales.

Innovative Delivery of Citrix Training

ONLC Training Centers is able to take students from sites with low Citrix enrollments and have them join instructor-led classes at other locations with its Remote Classroom Instruction (RCI).

"By combining our Citrix enrollments, we cancel fewer classes," said Andy Williamson, CEO of ONLC Training Centers. "In addition, RCI allows us to bring authorized Citrix training to many convenient classrooms throughout the Northeast and Mid-Atlantic regions. Not only do we deliver training in our classroom facilities, but students can also learn directly from their home or office."

RCI is not like traditional "distance learning" or "e-learning" classes. RCI is centered on classroom instruction, and as a result, the flow and feel of the class is almost exactly the same as regular instructor-led training.
